

Training That Makes a Difference

CORE CORRECTIONAL PRACTICES:
SKILLS TO PROMOTE BEHAVIOR
CHANGE

- ◆ Core Correctional Practices examine the link between staff attitudes, techniques, language, and culture and how this communication style promotes offender behavior change.
- ◆ During this highly interactive training session, strategies for developing and maintaining positive relationship and rapport, which is the foundation of all CCP skills, will be taught, modeled and practiced.
- ◆ The skill steps for Effective Use of Reinforcement, Disapproval, Punishment, and Authority will be taught and modeled. Participants will have an opportunity to practice and receive feedback on the use of these skills.

FEATURING

Michael Crofford, M.Ed., Lead CQI Specialist, Oriana House, Inc.

Michael Crofford earned an M.Ed in Clinical Mental Health Counseling and a BA in Philosophy from Kent State University where he focused on ethics and mental health treatment. He is the Lead CQI Specialist for Oriana House Inc. where he facilitates the implementation of evidence based practices through training, observation, and coaching of staff.
